

The Museums Association of Saskatchewan is pleased to present a morning of dialogue with Jameson Brandt, Coordinator of the Aboriginal Training Program in Museum Practices at the Canadian Museum of Civilization.

Jameson is currently conducting research and engaging in dialogue with communities throughout Canada to (i) understand the needs and priorities of Aboriginal individuals and (ii) understand what is already being done, where the gaps are, and (iii) explore the potential of collaboration and connection between organizations and individuals.

Please join us for a short presentation on the Program followed by dialogue. Participants will receive discussion questions in advance and are encouraged to bring own concerns, issues, and if applicable, information on own organization's programs and services.

Date: Wednesday, March 3, 2010

Time: 9:00am-12:00pm

Location: Regina, SK (Exact location TBA; based on # of RSVP).

Program

The goal of the Aboriginal Training Program in Museum Practices is to offer First Nations, Métis, and Inuit participants professional and technical training.
